Mr. Chairman, Mr. Mayor, Governor. Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is very gratifying to be welcomed to this great Southern State, this typical and representative State of the South, so cordially by the representativee of your city and your obje executive.

I appreciate the kind words which they have spoken. I am afraid, now. ever, that it is going to be very d'ffioult for me to measure up to the high opinion that they have expressed. am glad I am young for I will have a longer time to endeavor to justify their good opinion You have done s much for me in the past and been s loyal to the things which I have street for that you have an unlimited depo: it in my bank, and can draw on it whenever you require it. I shall come here whenever I can help you and i' as in the part, you do not need any help, I will come here whenever you can help me. (Laughter) And you can help me by giving me encouragement, or giving me hope, by giving me inspirat on. I appreciate the gathering of this immense crowd before me. "He did not mention his name, but he told them to vote for the best man and everybody knows who that is." (Laughter )
